NATIONAL ADOPTION MONTH

During National Adoption Awareness Month, CCAI encourages people to learn about the adoption process, debunk misconceptions, and contemplate opening their hearts and homes to a child in need of a family. CCAI emphasizes the transformative power of family love, shaping a child's sense of belonging, self-worth, and potential. Our core belief is that every child deserves the opportunity to experience the warmth and security that comes from being part of a family.

Ways to Make a Difference:

Explore additional ways to support our goal of bringing together cherished children with caring families. Your donation can make a significant impact, supporting our ongoing efforts to find forever families for waiting children, aiding those in institutions, and assisting adoptive families. With Giving Tuesday on November 28th and Colorado Gives Day on December 5th approaching, the opportunity to make a difference is right around the corner. However, there's no need to wait—you can contribute now and be a part of transforming lives.

ASL, a resilient 15-year-old teen from Colombia, is in search of an adoptive family that radiates love and care. Despite experiencing life's challenges, she remains remarkably adaptable, exuding a calm demeanor and a profound family orientation.

ASL finds joy in various creative pursuits, such as drawing, crafting, and indulging in TV entertainment, along with a special affinity for bonding with pets. Her academic interest is reflected in her favorite subject—ethics—where she demonstrates a remarkable understanding of right and wrong. ASL has fostered positive connections with adults, peers, and fellow children, highlighting her ability to form meaningful relationships. A dreamer at heart, she harbors aspirations of experiencing the wonders of the beach and Disneyland for the very first time.
